Copper Basin Historical Society seeks community support

By Tom O'Connor
Special to Copper Area News

COWABUNGA...COW BASSA!!! Introducing CBHSSA, the Copper Basin Historical Society of Southeast Arizona pronounced COW BASSA!

The Copper Basin Historical Society of Southeast Arizona (CBHSSA) is dedicated to documenting and preserving the history of the Copper Basin region. The idea was initiated by businesswomen Eugenia Slater and Myra Warren but delayed due to pandemic. A new post COVID-19 team including Ann Ramsey, Tom O'Connor, Gerry Kaufhold, Keith Cymry, and John Putnam has worked to make this idea a reality along with a lot more important people!

The CBHSSA now meets at the Historic Court House in Kearny, Arizona, secured by the visionary support of Judge Dave Orzel and Supervisor Jeff Serdy. The society seeks community support to document and preserve local history, and invites businesses and volunteers to contribute time, ideas, donations, and artifacts. The CBHSSA strives to be an intricate part of the Pinal County economic development strategy by developing and supporting employment opportunities, new businesses and brand-new residents throughout the Copper Basin!

History, Mission, Goals

Initiation and Development: The idea for the CBHSSA was initially proposed by Eugenia Slater and Myra Warren but was delayed due to the COVID-19 pandemic. A group of community members later revived the project and formed a working team to bring the society to fruition.

Mission and Activities: The CBHSSA aims to ensure that the history of the Copper Basin is documented and not forgotten and assessable to the world. The society will collaborate with local newspapers, social media, local museums, and collections like the Dr. James Celis Photo collection. We need support from the community, county, state and businesses to make this a quality Historic Society!

Community Engagement: The CBHSSA encourages community involvement by inviting businesses and individuals to volunteer their time, ideas, donations, and artifacts. The society's office is in the Historic Kearny Court House, and we will be open every Wednesday from 11 AM to 1 PM until further notice. This is a great place where community members and businesses can share their thoughts and contribute to the preservation efforts. A community CBHSSA Board has been developed, legal documentation is in final stages and communication channels are under development.

Thank you to the members and the communities who are actively making this happen!

Gardening for butterflies

By Bob Allen
Master Gardener

Butterflies need our help!

Most of the plants supporting butterflies are shrubs, trees, vines, grasses and ground covers. Most are native to the Sonoran Desert or are non-invasive exotics from arid regions that are no threat to native plant communities. The presentation included 29 species of butterflies most seen in Southwestern Gardens...information about what plants attract them, butterfly life cycles, and what we can do to encourage them.

Let's start with a butterfly garden. You'll want to create a stepped effect with tall plants in the back and low growers in the front. Or if your garden is circular, tall plants in the center tapering down in plant size to the lowest growing plants in the perimeter. You'll need to keep low-water plants together, if possible, and limit the use of plants that require more water.

Locate the garden in a sunny area easily accessible so you can observe butterflies. And provide some shade if none exists.

An effective butterfly garden will include both butterfly nectar flowers and larval foodplants. Nectar should be available most of the year. Try observing butterflies at one or more local nurseries...or ideally at Tucson Botanical Gardens. You'll want to gather ideas for your butterfly garden.

Avoid using pesticides and other chemicals because these will kill caterpillars and adults. Adult butterflies are most active from Spring to Fall on warm, sunny days when temperatures range between 65 and 95 degrees Fahrenheit. Climate, predation, parasitism and other factors affect butterfly populations. Therefore, expect daily and seasonal fluctuations in the numbers of butterflies visiting your garden or container garden. Pots work very well if you don't have a yard!

Butterflies are easily the most noticed, well-liked, colorful, and benign insects. Nearly 400 species occur in the Southwest, more than half of the total number in all North America!

Did you know that Arizona has a state butterfly? It is the Two-Tailed Swallowtail. They are the largest species of butterflies in the United States, featuring a wingspan of 3 1/2 to 5 1/2 inches! The swallowtails' habitat includes canyonlands, foothills, valleys and woodlands.

Crucially, Monarch Butterflies depend on healthy populations of milkweed. Other butterflies depend upon larval foodplants, too. If you have an herb or vegetable garden, you may have encountered a few of the strikingly colored Black Swallowtail caterpillars. Just pick them off if there are too many, but remember they need to eat if you want butterflies. They will cause some damage, but they will not kill the plant.

Native shrubs are drought tolerant and bloom from Spring to Fall, usually in response to rain or irrigation. Butterflies of all species love them. How about a Red Bird of Paradise? Adding this to your garden will attract some of the larger, showier species. One butterfly sure to come is the Pipevine Swallowtail. This black, orange, and iridescent blue species is one of the largest and most conspicuous of Southwestern Butterflies.

Trailing Lantana is an excellent addition to your butterfly garden. This nectar source draws all kinds of butterflies, and many will often favor it over other flowers. Butterfly observers everywhere know that milkweed plants are critical to butterflies. This is especially true in the desert Southwest, where many species of milkweed occur and are native. They are a major source of nectar for butterflies of all sizes, but crucially, these plants are the major source of food for the caterpillar of the Monarch butterfly.

In 2022, the International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN) declared the migratory Monarch Butterfly as endangered. Monarch populations are declining due to habitat loss, eradication of the plants it depends upon, and environmental factors. Monarch numbers have declined more than 80% since the 1990's in Central Mexico, and more than 99% since the 1980's in coastal California!

You can help by joining Tucson Botanical Gardens' Monarch Waystation program. To offset the loss of milkweeds and nectar sources we need to create, conserve, and protect Monarch butterfly habitats. Create a "Monarch Waystation" at home, schools, businesses, parks, zoos, nature centers, and along roadsides. Creating a Monarch Waystation can be as simple as adding milkweeds and nectar sources to your existing garden or maintaining a natural habitat with milkweeds. No effort is too small to have a positive impact.

To qualify as a registered Monarch Waystation through "Monarch Watch," plant at least 10 milkweeds of varying species, particularly those native to Arizona. Include other host plants and nectar plants to draw a variety of other butterflies to your garden. The Southeast Pinal County Master Gardeners and Tucson Botanical Gardens always recommend native plants from a local nursery when available.

Cyclists take over San Manuel for the weekend

By Nathaniel A. Lopez
Copper Area News

The parking lot of the old San Manuel pool was filled this past weekend with cyclists participating in the University of Arizona's annual races and time trials.

The first heat of the races started at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday. The cyclists started in front of the old pool, riding down Main Street, and hooking a left onto Veterans Memorial Highway. The riders followed the highway to the junction, then turned around and headed back towards town. Once getting to Webb Road they turned, making their way towards Oracle. Once at the corner of Webb Road and Mt. Lemmon Highway, the riders turned towards the Zipline and rode to the Pima county line, before turning around and heading back to the finish line at the pool.

Later on Saturday, more cyclists prepared to compete in a time trial race. The riders started at the pool, this time taking a right on Veterans Memorial Highway and riding to the county line, before turning around and heading back to the finish line.

On Sunday, riders competed in a race against the clock, doing laps around the high school.

With over 100 cyclists competing over the weekend, the event was also a fund raiser for the U of A team with a portion going to the Mammoth/San Manuel Community Schools. Sponsors of the event were BHP, Explore Pinal County, Sabino Cycles, Fair Wheel Bikes, Garmin, Beyond Bread and Skcratch Labs.

Acadia Ranch Museum to hold Arizona Heritage Horse presentation Feb. 22

The Acadia Ranch Museum, 825 E. Mt. Lemmon Highway in Oracle, will be the site of a presentation on the Arizona Heritage Horse. The talk and presentation will be on Saturday, Feb. 22, 2025, from 2 to 4 p.m. The event is free although donations are greatly appreciated. Space is limited; early arrival is recommended.

In 2012, the state of Arizona made the Colonial Spanish Horse the official Arizona Heritage Horse as part of their Centennial Celebration. The Colonial Spanish horse also known as the "Spanish Barb" is America's first horse brought to the Americas by the Spanish Conquistadors. In 1540, they were brought to Arizona by Francisco Vasquez de Coronado when he came searching for gold. These horses played an important part in Arizona's history and culture. The Spanish Barb was used by the Spanish explorers, missionaries, vaqueros, Native Americans, ranchers and the American cowboys in the settling of the west.

Esha Mork, owner and breeder of the Wilbur-Cruce strain of the Spanish Barb will be giving the presentation on the history of the horse, the Wilbur-Cruce line, and the Spanish Barb Association. Esha lives in Oracle and will also have one of her horses present for viewing. The Spanish Barb Association is dedicated to the perpetuation, preservation and restoration of the breed known as the Spanish Barb. Learn how the association is working to save these critically rare horses and how you can help to preserve this living history.
