

What every mom and soon-to-be-mom needs to know about their heart

(StatePoint) Over the last three decades, the United States has seen pregnancy-related deaths rise nearly 140%, and heart disease continues to be the leading cause. Furthermore, women who have prenatal complications, such as high blood pressure or gestational diabetes, have a significantly higher risk of heart disease and stroke later in life, yet many are not getting the care they need.

According to the National Collaborative for Infants & Toddlers (NCIT), an advocacy collaborative working to pass policies that make it possible for all expectant parents, infants and toddlers to thrive, the United States is in the midst of a maternal health crisis.

This sentiment is echoed by "Opportunities in the Postpartum Period to Reduce Cardiovascular Disease Risk Following Adverse Pregnancy Outcomes," a new scientific statement from the American Heart Association (AHA), which was recently published in "Circulation," the Association's flagship peer-reviewed journal.

"There are numerous countries in the world where the politicians have seized absolute power and muzzled the press. There is no country in the world where the press has seized absolute power and muzzled the politicians"

—-David Brinklev

"Healthcare professionals and the public alike often think of heart disease as a man's disease. While heart disease is also the leading cause of death for women, fewer than 50% of women identify it as such. This is creating a dangerous situation for women, especially during higher-risk periods of their life, as their symptoms often go undiagnosed and untreated," says Dr. Sadiya S. Khan, one of the statement's authors. "As adverse pregnancy outcomes become increasingly common, it's important for women to be aware of their risk for heart disease, the actions they can take to lower their risk if they experience pregnancy complications, and for birth justice policy interventions to take place that will improve their care during their pregnancy, and throughout their lifetimes."

Many women face significant barriers in accessing primary care after delivery. Up to 40% of women do not access postpartum care, and only an estimated 18% to 25% of postpartum patients with pregnancy complications or chronic health conditions are seen by a primary care clinician within 6 months of delivery. Women of color, and women in rural areas are disproportionately impacted by barriers to care that could leave them vulnerable to further health complications.

According to NCIT, policy interventions such as expanded Medicaid coverage for 12 months postpartum in all states, expanded income eligibility for health insurance programs, paid family and medical leave, community-based doulas, and evidence-based home visiting programs can help promote ethnic, racial and socioeconomic birth equity, and help ensure all expectant and new parents have access to insurance, care and the supports needed to thrive.

Also supporting women in all stages of life, and all stages of pregnancy is Go Red for Women, an AHA initiative empowering women to take charge of their heart health.

One way they can do that, according to the initiative, is by understanding their heart disease risks, and coming to their doctors' appointments prepared to discuss their personal and family health history and other factors that could impact their chance of a healthy pregnancy. Women can also proactively manage their heart disease risk factors during pregnancy and after delivery using the AHA's Life Essential 8 cardiovascular health metrics as a framework. These include: eating better, being more active, quitting tobacco, getting healthy sleep, managing weight, controlling cholesterol, managing blood sugar and managing blood pressure.

"Stemming the tide of this maternal health crisis is vital for families, and it starts with bringing light to the tremendous need for better delivery of care to moms and soon-to-be moms with a focus on heart health," says Dr. Khan.

Copper Corridor Fire Districts and

By T.C. Brown Copper Area News

The day seemed appropriate to gather at the Living Word Chapel in Oracle on May 4, 2024, for the Copper Corridor Fire District and Departments Cadet Ceremony. Thirteen Cadets representing various departments from the Copper Corridor completed Firefighter I and II training and were recognized on what is also International Firefighters Day. Family, friends, coworkers and community members gathered to congratulate all on their impressive accomplishment.

A total of 13 local area firefighters completed the arduous 12-week Firefighter I & II course sponsored by the Oracle Fire District. On top of the course, each Cadet successfully completed required Firefighter I and II certification examinations conducted by the Office of the Arizona State Fire Marshal. The friends and connections made during this training will last the Cadets a lifetime.

Oracle Fire District Chief Robert Jennings congratulated the group on the successful completion as well as welcomed them to the unique Firefighter Brother and Sisterhood. Course instructor Sam Peterson expressed his admiration for the accomplishment as well as challenged them to strive for better in their future endeavors. Both speakers shared their appreciation to the family members who have sacrificed as their loved ones pursue their calling. The class presented custom made plaques to both Chief Jennings and Instructor Peterson.

The topics covered in the training were designed to equip students with the knowledge and practical skills necessary for certification as entry-level firefighters. Additional course material provided these emergency responders with the ability to identify emergency scenes and respond to releases or potential releases of hazardous materials as part of the initial response to the incident for the purpose of protecting nearby persons, the environment, or property from the effects of the release.

Members of the Firefighting families and communities of Mammoth, Oracle, San Manuel and Superior were on hand to recognize the accomplishments of the Cadets. Those successfully completing the training include: J. Castro, L. Cota, M. Cruz, V. Dull, N. Gaona, J. Hernandez, B. McGinnis, T. Neville, A. Rodriguez, R. Vallee, C. Velasquez, G. Velasquez and T. Whitehouse. You are all appreciated for completing this course and for following your calling.

Chief Jennings expressed appreciation to several individuals and businesses throughout the Copper Corridor who were part of making this course a success. Those mentioned include: Chief Perez of Superior, Catalina Towing, Oracle CERT, Louis of Rancho Meat Market, Tri City Fire District in Globe, Oracle Fire Crews, Queen Valley Fire, San Carlos Fire, city and county officials, and more. He also expressed appreciation to the families of the Cadets and the students themselves for their dedication. A special appreciation was expressed for the Course Instructor Sam Peterson.

These 13 men and women who devoted their time and energy to this endeavor show a rare and special trait. Perhaps Instructor Peterson expressed it best when describing HEART.

H = Honor

E = Ethics

A = Accountability

R = Responsibility

T = Trust & Integrity

Thank you to each Cadet for wanting to make a difference in the communities you live in and now serve. Thanks for sharing your heart with us all.

Reminder: Intermittent daytime lane restrictions on US 60 east of Superior begin May 6

Upcoming full closure of US 60 begin May 15; drivers can expect long detour

The Arizona Department of Transportation reminds drivers to plan for frequent intermittent daytime lane restrictions lasting approximately 15 minutes on US 60 east of Superior, between milepost 227-231, for construction activities as the US 60, Queen Creek and Waterfall Canyon Bridges Replacement Project begins. Drivers should prepared for:

- Onsite flaggers and a pilot car to direct drivers through the work zone.
- A 14-foot vehicle width restriction to be in place. Oversize loads may be accommodated with advance notice.
- The speed limit will be reduced in the work zone.

Starting May 15, full closures of US 60 will begin between Superior and Miami on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. for rock blasting. During the full closures of US 60, traffic will be detoured on state routes 77 and 177. Due to the roughly 75-mile length of this detour, drivers may want to consider planning travel before 9 a.m. and after 2 p.m.

For more information about this project and to sign up for notifications about this project, please visit azdot.gov/ US60QueenCreekBridgeProject.

Drivers should allow extra travel time and be prepared to slow down, use caution and merge safely when approaching and traveling through highway work zones.

Lobos to face Bagdad in 1A semifinals

By Nathaniel A. Lopez Copper Area News

They defeated Bagdad last year to become the 2023 1A State Champions and their fans have faith that the boys will can beat them again this year to advance into the finals.

On Saturday, May 4, the Hayden baseball team continued their quest for the 1A baseball state championship game, hosting Desert Heights Prep in the quarterfinals playoff game.

The Lobos started the first inning posting 1 run and giving up none. The second inning saw the boys post 1 more run, keeping the Yotes off of the scoreboard. No runs were scored by either team during the third inning.

In the fourth inning the Yotes were able to post 1 run. The Lobos bit back in the fifth inning, posting 4 runs,

Holocaust survivor speaks at El Rancho Robles

By Nathaniel A. Lopez Copper Area News

On Friday, May 3, a group of more than 30 people gathered at El Rancho Robles in Oracle for an intimate, informative, and inspirational talk by Dirk Van Leenen, a Holocaust survivor, and author of a book trilogy on the subject, Resistance on a Bicycle, The Americans are Coming!!! The Last Hope to End the War in Holland, and The Last Train to the Concentration Camp: A Small Boy's Memories on the Train to Bergen-Belsen.

Van Leenen, born 1940, in the Netherlands, was just a child during World War II. Coming to Arizona in 1985, after accepting a horticulture job, Dirk met his current wife, and has been in the Phoenix Area ever since. Van Leenen credited his children, and grandchildren for inspiring him to write his stories, after recounting his experience of the war times to them.

"Once you start, there's no stopping," he told the crowd about telling his story.

During his presentation, he recalled what it was like living in Holland as a young boy during the Nazi occupation: food and water scarcity, lack of electricity, and persecution just for their faith. His father was a member of the Dutch Resistance, and his family would help fellow Jewish people who needed hiding. He recalled his house being searched by Nazis when he was just 3 years old. The Nazis weren't able to find the hiding place because their secret passageway wasn't in a typical place, Van Leenen explained. It was behind the toilet. On average, there would be about 20 people in hiding. His family and the resistance helped save over 1,000 people with acts of courage and bravery.

Even as a child, Dirk played his part, occasionally smuggling food for others under his clothing, while sitting on the back of his father's bike. He even had his own garden in their

He told the story of his father being tailed by the Nazis close to the end of the war. His father was arrested after attempting to alert other resistance safe houses that they were being watched, and needed to be careful. He recalled crying after seeing how badly they tortured his father, as his mother tended the wounds. That's when he talked about being placed on a train, and taken to a concentration camp, during what would be the last month of the war.

"I still see those bodies at night every once and a while," he told the crowd.

Eventually, the concentration camp he was in was liberated by the British. His family then made their way back to Holland, where they continued to help the Dutch

After his presentation, he asked if the crowd had any questions. One member of the crowd asked him how long it was, after the

He offered a special deal on his books to those in attendance, reminding them to pass on these stories, because they needed to be told, and they needed to be heard.
