PCSO identifies man in Winkelman shooting

Pinal County Sheriff's Office has identified the man killed in Winkelman July 18 during an officer-involved shooting.

The man is 60-year-old Mark McMillin of Tucson, AZ. "Next of kin has been notified," PCSO Public Information Officer JD Fitzgerald said.

According to PCSO, on July 18 at approximately 9:59 p.m., Pinal County Sheriff's Office deputies were attempting to locate a wanted suspect in connection with a sex crimes against children investigation when the shooting occurred. PCSO said that the suspect refused commands, produced a handgun, chambered a round and took an offensive position towards deputies. The incident occurred in the 200 block of Second Street in Winkelman.

The sergeant who discharged his duty weapon was placed on paid administrative leave, per standard procedures. The case is under investigation.

Preparing pre-teens and teens for the classroom includes immunizations

(StatePoint) Young people ages 7 to 18 are busy checking off their back-to-school or college lists. Visiting their pediatrician or family doctor to get up to date on immunizations should be part of that list. Immunizations will prepare their immune systems to recognize and resist viruses that spread quickly once classes begin. These are viruses that can lead to health issues like infertility, muscle paralysis, brain damage, blindness, deafness and cancer.

The recommended immunization schedule approved by the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) is based on ongoing review of the most recent scientific data and relies on two main factors: when the vaccine works best with your child's immune system, and when they need protection most.

"Seeing your pediatrician to catch up on vaccinations helps keep classmates, teachers and others in the school community healthy, too," says Rebekah Fenton, MD, FAAP, an adolescent medicine physician at a community health center in Chicago.

The AAP is sharing this information about recommended vaccines and the diseases they prevent:

Meningococcal Disease

At 11 or 12, your pre-teen should get their first dose of meningococcal vaccine to protect against meningococcal disease, a fast-acting disease that is life-threatening if not caught and treated within a few hours. Caused by bacteria that can infect the bloodstream, brain and spinal cord, anyone can get meningococcal disease. Among young people, it's most common in babies and 16-20-year-olds. Infections are spread through close contact like coughing or kissing, and lengthy contact in spaces like college dorms.

Meningococcal ACWY (MenACWY) vaccine protects against four bacterial strains, labeled A, C, W and Y.

Meningococcal B (MenB) vaccine protects against another bacterial strain and is recommended for kids with certain chronic health conditions that make them more vulnerable or anyone 16-18 whose pediatrician recommends it.

BACK TO SCHOOL IMMUNIZATIONS

Meningococcal ABCWY (MenABCWY) combines protection from MenACWY and MenB. If both vaccines are recommended at the same visit, it can be used instead of separate injections.

Tetanus, Diphtheria and Pertussis

At 11 or 12, pediatricians give the Tdap booster to protect against tetanus, diphtheria and pertussis (whooping cough). It's a slightly different version of a vaccine your child received as a baby (DTaP), with lower doses of the diphtheria and pertussis vaccines. After this, they'll need additional boosters every 10 years.

Tetanus is caused by exposure to naturally occurring bacteria in soil or dust through a break in the skin. Tetanus produces a toxin that causes painful muscle contractions. Also known as lockjaw, it can cause neck and jaw muscles to lock, making it hard to open the mouth or swallow.

Diphtheria causes serious throat infection, breathing problems and heart failure. The vaccine is a lifesaver. Before it existed, diphtheria killed 1 of every 5 kids infected.

Pertussis can cause a cough that won't go away and sometimes vomiting or trouble breathing. The protection your teen got from their childhood vaccine starts to wear off around age 11, making the booster essential. Teens can easily spread the disease, including to infants, who are at even more risk.

Human Papillomavirus (HPV)

The HPV vaccine prevents genital warts and works well to protect against strains of the virus that cause more than 90% of six types of cancer, including cervical cancer, penile and anal cancers, and cancers of the mouth and throat. Vaccinating kids ages 9-12 allows them to build strong immunity against the virus before exposure. If they don't get the first dose until age 15, they'll need three doses.

Influenza

The flu is unpredictable and there is no way to know if your child will have mild illness and miss just a few days of school or if they will get seriously ill and need hospital care. But be wary. U.S. flu deaths in children broke records during the 2024-25 season, with at least 216 deaths. The AAP recommends flu shots annually for everyone 6 months and older to prevent severe illness.

COVID-19

Millions globally, including teenagers and children, have received the COVID-19 vaccine. If your child has never had this vaccine, their immune system won't be ready to recognize and resist the virus that can lead to long-term problems associated with COVID.

Behind on Other Vaccines?

Delaying vaccines leaves your child vulnerable to preventable diseases. The AAP vaccine schedule is designed to prepare their body to resist contagious diseases as early and fully as possible. This keeps them healthy and active, instead of missing out while they're sick.

Learn more about vaccines at www.HealthyChildren.org and catch up on those your child missed. Most vaccines can be given at the same time as others.

“Kids and teen’s bodies can handle multiple vaccines in a short time because their immune system is in constant learning mode. Vaccines help kids stay healthy by keeping them ahead of serious, preventable diseases,” says Dr. Fenton.

Big Beautiful Bill not expected to affect Cobre Valley Regional Hospital

By Mila Besich
Copper Area News

As the negotiations for the recently passed One Big Beautiful Bill were addressed in the media, there became a flurry of information that came out from those opposing the bill. One of the key talking points brought up was lists of hospitals across the nation that would not be able to survive and maintain their operations if the bill was approved. Most of these hospitals listed were rural and remote hospitals.

The One Big Beautiful Bill called for massive tax cuts for the highest tax brackets in America. The bill also created provisions to massively increase the budget for Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE). To help fund these tax breaks and increases to the ICE budget, the new bill allows for significant reductions in services and programs that provide benefits to the lowest income, vulnerable Americans.

Significant cuts and program requirements to Medicaid known to Arizona residents as the Arizona Health Care Cost Containment System (AHCCCS) program are what put the Cobre Valley Medical Center on the list of hospitals that would be forced to close if the bill was approved.

CEO of Cobre Valley Regional Medical Center, Dr. Neal Jensen, reported that he was unaware that they would make this list, as the hospital is funded and operates with a variety of funding sources and several types of patients.

“Many of our patients are utilizing Native American health benefits, which have not been cut. A third are private payer insurance, a third are Medicare patients, and a third are Medicaid patients,” he said. This mix of patients, types, and other economic strengths were not part of the calculations, he further explained.

The effects of the proposed changes to the Medicaid program were the only data point that was used to quantify putting the CVRMC on the closure list. The bill, as it was approved, calls for a variety of changes to the program. Those policy changes include new application requirements, such as requiring those using the Medicaid program to re-apply every six months. The new program changes also call for participants to have gainful employment or to be enrolled and attending schools or training programs. There are some caveats for parents of young children or those who have other medical reasons; they may not have to meet the employment requirements. The additional requirements and renewal procedures is expected to create a situation where people may not seek use of the program or force them off of the program, leaving them uninsured.

Jensen shared that the hospital already has a program in place to help patients apply for Medicaid services, and he anticipates that the clinic will continue to offer that help and support when the new changes are put in effect in 2026. Those changes will have to be monitored by the State of Arizona, and the state will need to improve and upgrade its systems. With the new six-month application schedule, the state will no longer be able to auto-populate the client application for continuation of services.

The newly built Cobre Valley Kearny Clinic, pictured at top, opened earlier this summer. The Superior Clinic opened several years ago. Both, Dr. Neal Jensen said, will remain open in spite of coming cuts.

“Our hospital and clinics are one of the strongest hospital systems in the state,” he proudly said. “I want to ensure everyone that our hospital is not going to close, and we will continue to grow and improve our services and facilities.”

Jensen provided more details on Medicaid funding, sharing that during the Great Recession (2008-2010), the Arizona State Legislature reduced the funding reimbursements paid by 10% to medical facilities for Medicaid patients. Those percentages have never been increased, despite inflation and other rising costs. Jensen explained that the hospital adjusted during that time period and stressed that the hospital is financially stable.

Services at the Superior and Kearny Clinic are expected to remain the same, including the ambulance service in Kearny.

“One of our biggest challenges for the Kearny ambulance is hiring local employees to work with the ambulance service,” stated Jensen. CVRMC has 480 employees, and they try to hire as many local employees as possible.

“We strive to maintain 75% of our employees being local,” Jensen stated. Their local hire base includes residents from Globe, Miami, Superior, Kearny, Hayden, Winkelman and San Carlos.

Jensen, who is actively involved in several trade groups such as the American Hospital Association and the Arizona Hospital Association, explained that these organizations are working to advocate for modifications to the provisions in the bill.

For those using the Medicaid system, these new program changes will take effect in 2026. The Big Beautiful Bill will also have effects on the Affordable Care Act Insurance Marketplace. New regulations within that health insurance program will also shorten the enrollment periods, increase premium costs and will require annual income verification.

While Dr. Jensen provided great assurance that the hospital is in strong financial health, he shared that people who miss these enrollment deadlines or no longer qualify for the Medicaid programs, will likely be sicker longer and, without insurance, will likely incur costly medical debt.

On Saturday, July 26, the Tri-Community came out for a cornhole tournament that was for a good cause. The tournament was a medical fundraiser for 6-year-old August Acedo, a local boy in need of serious medical surgery to keep his kidney. August and his parents Marissa Reyes and Rudy Acedo have been on quite the journey, and the community came out in support.

“We were hoping doing this here (at El Rancho Robles), we would bring the community together, so they could know our story, because I’m from the community. It’s been amazing, we’ve met a lot of amazing people.” commented mother Marissa Reyes.

“We never truly got therapy for our son’s condition, and you know, being around the community and the people we grew up with in town, is definitely a therapy in itself. We would definitely like to thank all of our sponsors and all of the community who’s come out to support,” added father Rudy Acedo.

There was a table full of raffle prizes, awards for the winners of the cornhole tournament. Tacos Rico, Big Sexy Wangs and Thangs, and Purple Devil Donuts were in attendance serving food. The sponsors were Oracle Land and Homes, I’d Smoke That BBQ, Durazzo Construction, Keller Williams’ Tanya Reddish and Sarah Belknap, and venue host El Rancho Robles. Chris Cruz was in charge of running the cornhole tournament.

“It’s a pleasure to give back to the community, especially a local family, a great kid, and a great cause,” commented El Rancho Robles Director of Events Corrie Majalca.

Seeing the amount of support is one of the reminders of the significance a tight community that looks out for its families can have.
